   The media course (320J) is designed specifically to address the needs of the current market and industry with respects to the young actor. It provides skills necessary for competing in the industry today as it moves away from the once vital League of Regional Theatres system for which much current actor training was designed. Web-series development, online presence, film production, and script development are all areas the young actor needs to be well versed in in order to succeed in today’s market. Also; as our UTLA program has gone live, providing a capstone for our BFA Acting majors, it has become clear that more on-camera work is necessary to prepare the students for that experience and thusly, the professional realm.
