Carl Victor Bredt died unexpectedly of a heart attack on March 31, 1961, at the age of 52. He is survived by his wife, Olga D. Bredt, and his daughter, Mrs. Marion S. Roberts, Jr. Also surviving him are his father, V. E. Bredt of Austin, his brother, George Bredt of Rockdale, his sisters, Mrs. Bill Howell of Rockdale, and Mrs. Corbett Ivey of Los Angeles, California.

He was born in Marble Falls, Texas, on March 3, 1909. He attended the public schools of Austin and upon graduation from high school, he came to The University of Texas. He holds three degrees from the University: Bachelor of Science in Physical Education, 1934; Master of Education, 1937; and Doctor of Education, 1948. He also took some graduate work in counseling at the University of Chicago and compiled special personnel "case studies" for the Harvard Graduate School of Business.

From 1935-42 Dr. Bredt served with the University's Extension Division as a lecturer in the Bureau of Health Education and as an adult education counselor. His University career was interrupted by World War II. He served as an Army Air Corps captain from 1942 to 1946.

On his return to the campus, Dr. Bredt became director of the University Veterans Advisory Service, which supervised over ten thousand veterans attending The University of Texas under the "G. I." Bill. Later he was promoted to assistant dean of student life, then associate dean of student life, and dean of men. In these capacities he was counselor and advisor to many students with personal problems and served as their representative and counselor in hearings before the Faculty Committee on Student Discipline. He also served as Lecturer in counseling and guidance in the College of Education.

He served on the following standing committees of the University in 1960-61:

- Chairman of Parking, Traffic and Safety
- Chairman of Student Living Accommodations
- Intramural Sports for Men
- Student Government Advisor

Dr. Bredt was a great believer in the value of a well-balanced athletic program. In 1958 the Intramural Department established the Carl V. Bredt Award for the winner of the dormitory division in Intramural Athletics. He spent many out-of-office hours playing golf and hunting, and frequently officiated at college and high school games and was 1957-59 president of the Southwest Football Officials Association.

Dr. Bredt was a devoted member of the University Methodist Church and served on its Board of Stewards. He was a member of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary education fraternity; American and Texas Psychological Associations; National and Texas Associations of Student Personnel Administrators; and the American College Personnel Association. In 1955-58 he was secretary-treasurer of the Texas Association of Student Personnel Administrators, and in 1959-60 he was president of this association.

In the course of his life, honors and recognition came to Dr. Bredt from many sources. Shortly after his death, the "Carl V. Bredt Memorial Fund" was established, and is at present being used as an emergency loan fund for needy and deserving students. He was a person whom we shall remember for his great devotion to his family, his fine sense of humor, his ability to be firm but always fair to students, his freedom from taboos, prudery, superstition and prejudice, his clear-headed guidance, personal force and purposeful drive. In gratitude and respect, we join those others whose privilege it was to have been his friend and companion.
