PROPOSED CHANGES TO THE GOVERNMENT DEGREE PROGRAM IN THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS CHAPTER IN THE UNDERGRADUATE CATALOG 2018-2020

TYPE OF CHANGE:  ☑ Academic Change
☐ Degree Program Change (THECB form required)

PROPOSED CLASSIFICATION:  ☑ Exclusive  ☐ General  ☐ Major

1. IF THE ANSWER TO ANY OF THE FOLLOWING QUESTIONS IS YES, THE COLLEGE MUST CONSULT LINDA DICKENS, DIRECTOR OF ACCREDITATION AND ASSESSMENT, TO DETERMINE IF SACSCOC APPROVAL IS REQUIRED.
   • Is this a new degree program?  Yes ☐  No ☑
   • Is this program being deleted?  Yes ☐  No ☑
   • Does the program offer courses that will be taught off campus?  Yes ☐  No ☑
   • Will courses in this program be delivered electronically?  Yes ☐  No ☑

2. EXPLAIN CHANGE TO DEGREE PROGRAM AND GIVE A DETAILED RATIONALE FOR EACH INDIVIDUAL CHANGE:

As part of our curriculum reform effort, the Dept. of Government established a Curriculum Reform Committee in January 2016. The Curriculum Reform Committee met with students and faculty throughout spring semester of 2016 to discuss a variety of reform ideas. Some of those ideas, including the expansion of our professional internship program and the creation of a pre-law certificate, are still under discussion, but two proposals have already been approved by the Dept. as a whole.

The first of these proposals would create an undergraduate field in research methods. Methods is not currently an undergraduate field, although it is a graduate one, and most methods courses are listed in the Political Theory field, which makes no logical sense. Creating a methods field would separate the methods courses from the political theory field, with which they have little in common, and would make it easier for students to understand which courses count toward the methods of inquiry track discussed below. It would also enable students who opt for the traditional GOV major to use methods courses to satisfy the requirement that they take courses in three fields. This might encourage more students to take methods courses, which are a growing and important part of the discipline.

The second of these proposals would create an optional system of four tracks. Each of these tracks, except for the research methods track, would combine two current undergraduate GOV fields:

- Political and Legal Thought (Political Theory and Public Law)
- U.S. Politics and Policy (American Government and Public Policy)
- World Politics (Comparative Government and International Relations)
- Methods of Inquiry (Research Methods)

Students who opted to do a GOV track would have to take twelve hours of courses in that track. Upper as well as lower division courses other than GOV 310 and 312 would count toward the hours in a track. Students who preferred not to do a track, however, could satisfy the requirements of the major in the traditional manner, by taking at least one course in three out of the seven GOV undergraduate fields.

The aim of the optional track system is to provide GOV students with more specialized training and expertise. We believe that the tracks will provide helpful guidance to students and give them a more coherent plan of study. In addition, the tracks will map on to specific substantive interests, research paths, and potential careers, providing students with skills and knowledge that will be an asset to them personally and professionally. Our faculty and the undergraduate advising staff will encourage students to choose tracks appropriate for their academic and professional interests. For example, we will encourage students to take the World Politics track if they are interested in international affairs or careers in the foreign service,
Third World development, or international commerce. The political and legal thought track, meanwhile, would be appropriate for students interested in law school, human rights advocacy, and ethics.
