• Gregory Fenves, UT Austin’s President, reflects on the past academic year and future directions.
  - Thanks staff and UTPD in particular for their rapid response to recent tragedy that occurred on campus.
  - Difficult semester due to objectionable posters and fliers around campus and the city. Caused tension and fear among the UT community. University counseling has seen a large increase in the use of its services.
  - Texas Legislature is in session, and this one in particular is difficult. Many have called it one of the toughest, tensest sessions they have ever seen.
    - General revenue appropriations for UT likely to be significantly affected.
  - Many changes on campus have led to increased synergies and effectiveness in operations. For example, the CFO portfolio and Operations portfolio, both now fall under Senior Vice President and Chief Financial Officer Darrell Bazzell.
  - ASMP, i.e., conversion to Workday, has been a big issue and will fundamentally affect the way in which UT does business. The go-live date has been adjusted and the go-live dates of HR and Finance have been separated.
  - Supportive of exercise and is hopeful that showers might be more common in future building design at UT.
  - Wellness Committee identified important role of supervisors and managers in contributing to positive workplace culture; training and consistency among managers would be have a positive impact on UT.
  - Flexible work arrangements may improve morale among the staff. UT is a service organization, which may influence the arrangement of flex work arrangements.
  - Diversity and inclusion: President believes UT has most diverse executive leadership team and most effective leadership team. Existence of diversity in leadership provides different solutions to problems. Faculty recruiting has changed to increase the diversity of the applicant pool. As the flagship university of Texas, we must work to confront and address issues of diversity on campus.
  - Engagement: Difficult to engage with a 70,000 person community at UT Austin. We send a lot of communications and need to figure out a better and more effective way to communicate within and across portfolios.
  - Communications: How do we communicate in the era of social media? How do we have timely, authoritative information when people expect it, recognizing that there may be uncertainties associated with the quality of the information?
  - Question 1: What is the status of the hiring freeze?
    - Answer: The hiring freeze will end August 31, and it only applies to state-appropriated funds.
  - Question 2: Did the hiring freeze affect the budget?
