Canceling Work Orders

1. Purpose
   1.1 Work orders are often canceled, but only under specific circumstances. Usually due to
   • Lack of manpower
   • Superseded by extra work orders that are open in the system due to an error.
   • Or work order left open so long that another work order has opened up... which is still lack of manpower
   • Building or equipment owner requested it been canceled or not performed.
   • Equipment found to be undergoing repairs, renovations, idled (off-line) or retired/abandoned in place.

   It is important that we document why a work order has been canceled for root cause analysis. This allows us to put labor estimates needed for establishing service level requirements. Work orders can ONLY be canceled IF:
   • No labor (primary or secondary labor) has been charged
   • No purchase orders or material have been charged

   1.2 What you need to know:
   • Only the PRIMARY crew can CANCEL the work order. DO NOT cancel the work order if your crew is a secondary crew.
   • If you are a secondary crew, cancel your secondary labor and leave the work order
