

Adobe Encore - How to Create a BluRay Menu In Photoshop

Go to >File>New	 File Edit Image Layer Type S New... ⌘ N Open... ⌘ O
Choose the following Parameters Width 1920 Height 1080 Resolution 72 RGB Color Mode Background Contents Background Color Color Profile Display Pixel Aspect Ratio Square Pixels Click OK	 New Name: Fall2017881KA Preset: Custom Size: [dropdown] Width: 1920 Inches Height: 1080 Inches Resolution: 72 Pixels/Inch Color Mode: RGB Color 8 bit Background Contents: Background Color <input type="checkbox"/> Advanced Color Profile: Display Pixel Aspect Ratio: Square Pixels OK Cancel Save Preset... Delete Preset... Image Size: 30.0G in Photoshop >select Window > Layers.

Click inside the Layers panel, and select Layer > New > Group.

In the New Group dialog, enter (#) <Page Name>. For example, to name the page Page 1, enter (#) Page 1

Click OK

Create button groups within the page
Type in the titles of the DVD
Repeat the steps to create as many pages as you require. Duplicate the page layer, and rename the buttons if you are planning to maintain a uniform appearance across pages.

1. Save the menu in the corresponding Library folder as a PSD file.
2. Open Encore, and select Windows > Library.
3. In the Set menu, select the category in which you have saved the PSD file. For example, if you had saved your file in the Corporate folder, select Corporate.
4. Select the PSD in the library panel, and drag it to the menu panel.
5. Link the buttons to pages, buttons, chapter points, or assets.

To navigate the pages in the menu, use the arrow buttons. The navigation provides you with the browsing sequence of the pages.